A READABLE DOCUMENT!!

The Old Cry Refuted—Correspondence between Mr. Hill (a Federal Soldier) and the Clerk of the House of Representatives in 1876.

MR. ADAMS RISES TO EXPLAIN.

A strange story we have to tell the public, that we have republicans even in this intelligent part of the country who are so politically deranged as to insist that they have found a truth in the New York Weekly Times. Any sane person; unprejudiced; reading the following letter will see at once that, although, the Democrats, prejudiced by some fanatics are, and have done more for Union soldiers than the radicals themselves:

Hartford, Ky., Aug. 10, 1876.

HON. GEO. M. ADAMS,

Clerk House of Representatives,

Washington, D. C.

DEAR SIR:

I was a federal soldier during the late war but am a Democrat and a personal friend of mine who was also a Union soldier but is a Republican, has just called my attention to a statement in the New York Weekly Times, of the 14th inst., giving the number of ex-union soldiers in the employ of the late Republican House, removed by the present Democratic House, and the number of Confederate soldiers appointed to their stead. The figures are so unreasonable, placing the number of Union Confederates removed at 48 and the number of Confederates appointed at 48 that I challenged their correctness, which is insisted upon by my friend and we have agreed to submit the matter to your decision and to abide by that statement as to the facts of the case, and I hope that you will furnish me over your own signature, a true statement of the facts. Hoping that you will excuse me for thus troubling you with your valuable time which I know must be much occupied in your official duties, and that you may favor me with an early reply, I am very truly &c.,

SAM E. HILL.

CLERKS OFFICE, OF REP'S. U. S.,

Washington, D. C., Sep. 14, '76.

SAM E. HILL, Esq.

DEAR SIR:

Your letter of the 10th of August, was received in the closing hours of the last session and in the hurry and confusion incident to such occasions was laid aside and forgotten until now.

The New York Times to which you refer, is grossly incorrect and inaccurate in almost every particular.

The list of discharged persons given therein, mentions several persons as Union soldiers, who had no connection whatever with the Union Army. Whilst in the list of appointments given in that paper, six persons are spoken of as Confederate soldiers, who were never in any way connected with the Confederate Army and one of whom was in point of fact a soldier in the Federal army from the beginning till the close of the war. More over the list of appointments given in that paper, not only omits the names of a large number of Union soldiers appointed but also 38 of the old employees of the former Republican House who were retained by the present Democratic House.

The fact is the last republican House had only 51 Union soldiers whilst the Democratic House has 56 Union soldiers and only 28 Confederate soldiers in its employ. Moreover there was appointed under the present Democratic House 15 colored men (mostly to place of laborers of course) whilst 38 of the old employees of the Republican House were retained which facts ought to be a sufficient answer to all that has been said about hostility to Union soldiers and the wholesale displacement of trained and experienced men to give place to new and incompetent persons.

Very Respectfully,

GEO. M. ADAMS.

PROF. SUMNER

ON INDEPENDENCE IN VOTING.

A Dispassionate Estimate of the Two Candidates.

Why Prof. Sumner of Yale College cannot support the Republican nominee—Samuel J. Tilden's Genuine Statesmanship.

PROF. W. G. SUMNER is Professor of Political Economy, or the Science of Government, in Yale College, one of the oldest and highest colleges in rank among the institutions of America. He is, perhaps, the ablest writer and lecturer we have on the subject. He is committed, he says, to no party. He looks from the standpoint of plain facts and logical reasoning upon the vital questions of the administration of the government and the happiness of the people. What he says of Governor Tilden and especially of the history of reconstruction is worthy of careful perusal by all candid men. So far as he has had any connection with party, Prof. Sumner has heretofore acted with the Republicans.

[From the New Haven Palladium.]

I observe that most of the public discussions turn upon the antecedents, the acts, and the characters of the one and the other party. Those considerations have no force at all for my mind. I know my neighbors. One of them is a Republican by habit, and the other a Democrat by habit, and neither of them can define his party name. When, therefore, I read the descriptions that party newspapers and party orators give of the opposite party, I look around me for the demons who seek the national ruin, and I do not find them. I find neighbors, some of whom are under one banner and some under the other, but in their general tone and will and intentions those of one party are just as good and just as bad as those of the other. Especially when I remember that the social distribution of the two parties in the Northern States, is exactly opposite to what it is in the Southern States, it seems to me that the national parties are very easy adjusted in regard to the social, intellectual, and moral elements which they contain. Now, an historian or a foreigner, reading the accounts which the parties give of each other, must infer either that these accounts are all false, and that they simply constitute a depraved method of electioneering which obscures the issue and prevents the people from really using sound judgment, or else that they are all true, in which case the people of the United States are so unprincipled, corrupt, dishonest, unjust, malicious, and venal that it makes little difference what is the result of any political struggle.

I regard the good sense, sound patriotism and correct intention of the masses of the people in either party as substantially equal. I regard the evil elements in the parties as substantially equal, and I turn for my grounds of judgment to the considerations which I think genuine. I find these in men. I cannot trust a party. I can trust a man. I cannot hold a party responsible. I can hold a man responsible. I cannot get an expression of opinion which is single and simple from a party. I can only get that from a man. A party cannot have character, or conscience, or reputation. It cannot repent, nor endure punishment or disgrace. I know very well that we are in the habit of predicating all these things of parties, but I should think our experience had offered the fullest proof that we cannot properly predicate any of these things of a party, except in a broad half-metaphorical sense, under which all the sharpness and efficiency necessary to practical politics are lost. The proof is, at any rate, satisfactory to me.

I have no information other than what the newspapers have given us all. From their story I do not see how any one can feel respect for the candidature of Gov. Hayes. It appears that Mr. Cameron was pigged because some members of his delegation violated a vote as a unit, and he therefore refused to give the State vote as a unit for their candidate at the decisive moment. The Senatorial aspirants could not see the prize go to either one of their own number, and agreed only that it should not go to Blain. These two things combined gave it to Hayes. I, at the time, expressed the opinion that this course of events, when one reflected that the business in hand was the selection of a chief magistrate of the nation, was a "farce." I did not then, and do not now, deny the possibility that Hayes may be the man for the crisis. I cannot deny the possibility that, if you shake up the names of eight million voters in a box, and draw one by lot, you may get the one out of the eight million who is best fitted for the Presidency, but we are assumed to be rational beings, making a selection on rational grounds, and I think we did ourselves little credit on that occasion in that point of view. Some of the gentlemen there came home rejoicing and triumphing over the party machine. They defeated the machine in its first intention, but it doubled upon them with its well-known sluteness and activity. Mr. Hayes seems to be the creature of the machine, and to have no other public claim to the Presidency. He must feel that his selection is arbitrary, that he has everything yet to do to justify public confidence that he is the recipient of an "honor." He cannot act with the assured independence of a man who has advanced by well-earned steps, to whom the Presidency comes as the highest trust at the end of a career, to whom it is less an honor than a recognition and a concession.

Mr. Tilden's nominations was opposed by all the worst elements of his party, and was supported by as honest, pure and intelligent men as ever led in any political convention in this country. They were many of them young men, representing the hope, strength, faith and purpose of the younger half of this generation, to which I turned long ago with all my confidence for the national future.

The question of the currency, to me, stands before any other. It appears to me that Mr. Tilden has shown a more correct, detailed, statesmanlike knowledge of the evil, the remedy and the process of cure than any other public man who is eligible.

I am, of course, utterly opposed to the repeal of the Resumption Act or any part of it, and I disapprove of any concession on that point, in form or substance, by Mr. Tilden or anybody else.

I put next in this canvass the matter of administrative reform. Mr. Tilden has been Governor of the State which has led in the demoralization of our politics since the beginning of the century. He has had the hardest position for beginning reform, perhaps, which there is in the Union. He has made the only positive and successful steps toward it, at the risk of his own political fortunes, which I know of in the country. The newspaper exposures of the Tweed Ring would have made no more impression on that body than the pattering of rain on the hide of a rhinoceros, and the members of the Ring would to-day have been flaunting their stolen wealth in the face of the public, if Mr. Tilden had not reduced their guilt to an arithmetic demonstration, available to a court of law. The Canal Ring fight is known to everybody.

I have in mind, however, not only these "reform" efforts, but also administrative reform. I will take a single case which floated in a paragraph through the newspapers, occasioning, so far as I ever saw, very little attention, but which had an immense effect on my mind, and which I have often urged in private conversation.

It was stated that the politicians of the Southern tier of counties of New York were bitterly hostile to Governor Tilden. The reasons were given, two in number: 1. Mr. Tilden had refused to remove the Republican superintendent of the asylum at Elmira in order to appoint a Democrat. 2. Mr. Tilden had removed, for cause, the Corporation Counsel of Elmira, who was a Democrat, although the Common Council of that city was Republican, and could elect a Republican successor. These were good grounds for the opposition of the politicians, but they were an imperative demand on me, if I was an "Independent," and meant what I had been talking about for years, to give him my full, hearty, and efficient support if it ever came in my way.

I know that the soft-money Democrats have claimed that Mr. Tilden has surrendered on the currency question, and the Republicans have hastened to accept their authority as conclusive on that point. Mr. Tilden's opinions on this point are not new, nor were they first placed before the public in his letter, but if he does not in that document lay down hard-money doctrines, then language has no meaning, and I could not express hard-money doctrine myself. The soft-money men have, within a year or two, begun to use some hard-money phrases in forced, artificial and impossible applications. They find those phrases in Mr. Tilden's letter, and that is the ground on which they claim his surrender.

Mr. Hayes has made a very distinct avowal that he will resist the repeal of the Resumption Act unless something better is put in its place, and if he is elected I shall certainly await with generous confidence a fulfillment of that pledge. The difficulty is just the one which seems to me radical in his candidature. Between two candidates, one of whom is recommended to me on the opinion of his friends, the other of whom has a record of action and achievement under my knowledge and inspection, my most rational expectation of such a performance as I desire attaches to the latter.

That Mr. Tilden is politician enough to be available is only an advantage, since we cannot get an angel with a flaming sword, and I think that we Independents have cast worse reproach upon ourselves than our most sarcastic critics, since we have failed to seize upon a chance which offered itself to our demand, and have chosen to trust to a groundless faith and a hope for which we cannot give a reason. In this light I must be allowed, without offense, to regard the support of Gov. Hayes.

I received a letter a while ago from a friend of Gov. Hayes, who declared that Gov. Hayes was a very modest man, whose modesty prevented him from accepting the United States Senatorship. I quote it as an instance of what seems to me wrong reasoning on these matters. If Gov. Hayes is such a man as is now claimed, it seems to me he is just the man we have sorely needed in the Senate for the last few years, and if he refused to go, he turned his back on the call of public duty. I do not deny his right to refuse, although in general I hold it sound doctrine that a man of good health and independent fortune ought to serve the State when duly and honorably selected; but if Mr. Hayes was ever to be a candidate, he ought to have pursued a public career in the subordinate places which opened to him; he ought to have allowed us to see him in those places, and he ought to have made a record on which we could form a judgment to-day, and not be thrown on the say-so of his friends. If he is to be elected, I shall certainly not prejudice him, nor allow any prejudice to rise in my mind; but when I look back on former cases in which the campaign enthusiasm has surrounded an untitled man with a halo which has subsequently faded into something worse than obscurity, my imagination refuses to act.

Another point in this canvass which very deeply interests me is the condition and future of the South. The campaign seems to be turning more and more to that issue after all, and it seems to be found that distrust of rebels and the old war spirit are still so strong as to be the best available campaign capital. If that is to be so, then I must take sides against any further administration of the affairs of the South by the North acting through the general Government. I have had occasion within a year to review the whole history of reconstruction. The effect upon my mind has been shame and blame to myself for the share which I, as a Republican, have had in helping to build up the worst legislation of the nineteenth century. I have been shocked to realize by what successive stages we have built up here a system of restrictive and coercive legislation and of which, very few Northern Republicans know, in even its broadest features, and I can only recognize in disorder, riot, misrule, irresponsible official tyranny, industrial loss, the results which have followed everywhere in history from coercive legislation enacted by one community against another. The Republican candidate for the Vice-President devoted his letter of acceptance almost exclusively to the Southern question. He believes that the Southern States are not civilized up to the standard of the Northern States, and he wants to bring them up. I agree with him that they are on a lower grade, but I submit that it is not his business nor ours to civilize them by any political measures.

Finally, in regard to another matter which I have very much at heart, but which is hardly an active issue in the campaign, whatever hope there is for free trade, lies in the election of Tilden.

If, then, a decision is forced upon me, I simply judge, on all the information I possess, that Mr. Tilden has more knowledge, ability, skill and will, to do what I want to see done in politics than Mr. Hayes. Nevertheless, I am called upon to bind or pledge myself in any way, upon myself free to take any course which may, upon further information or reflection, seem best. However the election may result, I shall be guided in my relations to the next Administration entirely by the performances in regard to the matters I have here discussed.

W. G. SUMNER.

CARL SCHURZ.

Zach Chandler's Mouthpiece Says He Has Been Advised to Mend His Ways.

[From the Washington Rep., Sep. 13].

Some controversy and accompanying wild statements have been provoked by the public announcement that Carl Schurz has informed his personal friends that the chances of Republican success in Ohio and Indiana are precarious. To put these controversies at rest, we rise to explain that Mr. Schurz, to the best of our information, did write a letter to an intimate friend, in which the prediction referred to was most unequivocally pronounced. In explanation of this, it is asserted that his speeches in the campaign thus far have been addressed to the subject of Civil Service Reform, and that their groundwork has been a baseless assault upon the Administration of President Grant. In the opinion of competent party authority, speeches of this kind are not calculated to advance the interests of the common cause, and, it is rumored, Mr. Schurz was advised to mend his ways. Hence these tears.

Newspaper advertising is now recognized by business men having faith in their own wares as the most effective means for securing for their goods a wide recognition of their merits.

Airdrie Works.

A brief notice of these works may not prove uninteresting to the working class of your readers, and I, feeling an inclination to "loose up," will speak my little piece. It is well known that Airdrie is but the ghost of its former self and proportions that under any management would be seemingly fair, are neglected. All the works are in ruins, furnaces, engine houses and machinery are numbered with the things of the past, no effort as yet, made to rebuild, or even care for them. The works, as they stand, form a very poor comment on their management for the past few years.

Mining operations are progressing slowly, the miners not working to any advantage to themselves or the company. Reason why, no encouragement. All supplies furnished them, powder, oil and blacksmith work are charged at exorbitant and unreasonable rates, all day labor is poorly paid and grudgingly furnished and the coal screened so heavily that but little is left to the miners. So it is no wonder that good miners leave here to go to the far better managed mines of Smith, McHenry or Hamilton and live on half work there, rather than starve on full work here. The only man of any energy or enterprise connected with the present management of Air-drie is Dr. S. A. Jackson, and he, making a success with a well appointed store, cares little about the coal work, which is a "dead thing" financially speaking.

Every one in this county heartily wishes for the return of these works to the possession of their owners as it is well known that they will develop all the minerals and make this old hill blossom as a rose and add greatly to the riches of the country, but as it is,

LETTER FROM BUFORD.

We were highly entertained yesterday, 22nd Sept, by a splendid speech from Hon. William T. Ellis. It was well received by all the Democrats,— even the Peter Cooper men thought it a very brilliant affair, and some of them intimated that they thought it a little whimsical to stick to Pete—any longer. We worked like true men and democrats in order to have our glorious old flag ready to float aloft, and be in good tune by the time Mr.
Ellis should arrive, and we are very proud to mention that all of the prominent business men and citizens of Buford vicinity participated with one exception, that of Mr. C. W. Hussey, nevertheless we succeeded in hoisting a beautiful pole with a nice flag attached 90 feet high, with small ropes and forks. The Republicans thought an attempt upon our part, to raise such a pole futile. But the citizens of this vicinity don't stand on trifles and where there's a will there's a way, hence up went the pole,—and the flag unfolding to the breeze,—Tilden, Hendricks and reform were plainly visible there was the time when the Republican would have presented a good appearance around the grave of some of their fallen patriots,—owing to the unnatural length of their faces. Mr. Ellis spoke an hour, to a good crowd, he is a fluent speaker, and his language is chaste and select. He is destined at no very distant day to become one of our great political leaders; success to your friend Bill—and may you attain that altitude fame so justly yours.
There are but few Peter Cooper men in our District and I have seen them that I thought were more strongly interested in the welfare of the candidate than they, whose whole thing is too vaporary—and won't stand close inspection.
All the Radicals in Ky, can, vote the Peter Cooper ticket with impunity—from the fact that their vote will amount to nothing here and at the same time will have tendency to unite the Democrats north on Cooper by insinuating by their votes here that they are ignoring their former affiliations to the Republican party,—at the same time it is a well defined fact, and truth that out north where they can accomplish something by their votes they will, to a man, support the Republican ticket for President in November.

The Good Templars are very prevalent here but I don't know of a Smith, vote in this district. I have the honor to represent both the Good Templars and Grangers. But at the same time I did not so understand the law by which I was admitted a member as to any way bind me to support its members or representatives for office politically.
Some seems to so construe it. We should remember and reflect over the memorable year that placed on our national ticket Douglas—Breckenridge and Bell, we were sadly defeated and the consequences are known to the satisfaction of Democrats I presume. Business at this point is good Mess. Holbrook and Field are doing a very large business. And the farmers seem exultant over their crop prospects. Benj.
Newton Esqr. presented me with some CONTEMPLATED MURDER.

We were aroused from sleep last night, 24th, by a knocking at our door when a young lady informed us that the negroes, living on the premises of Mr. Thos Bell, Sr. were killing each other. White men arrived at the scene of action and found William Chapman of color, with his throat cut and in very bad plight. Chapman had attacked his step-sister, Paulina, with a very large rock, mashing the rock very much, and cutting an ugly scar on top of the girls head. Chapman said he intended to kill her, and then suicide himself. So much for love in a cottage, as I am informed that she had jilted him, hence the intended murder. The parties were sent to Hartford to day for trial. We are having a nice shower of rain at this writing. More anon.

MARRIED.

ROSENBERG—ROSENBERG.—In Philadelphia, Penn., at the residence of the bride's father, 915 St John's street, on Sunday, September 17th 1876, at 5 o'clock P. M., Mr. L. ROSENBERG of Hartford Ky., to Miss SOPHIA ROSENBERG.

The newly wedded pair have our best wishes for their success and future happiness.

In Memoriam.

CENTERTOWN, Ky., Sept. 18, 1876.

Editor Herald.

The hand of death has inflicted upon us a severe blow than usually falls upon a community, in the death of Mrs. NANCY ROWE, wife of Robert Rowe, one of our oldest and best citizens. After having her constitution considerably shattered by chills and fever, which have repeatedly attacked her during the twelve or fourteen months past, she died of an attack of bilious fever at half past 1 o'clock on Saturday morning, Sept. 16, aged 73 years.

Her life has been spent in our midst, and, without claiming anything like perfection for any mortal, we think that that life might be held up as a model for others.

Without implying that she lacked any amiable traits of character, it may be said that she had charity for those who thought or acted differently from her and patience to withstand the common annoyances of life. She was earnestly devoted to truth, and used every means to inculcate the minds of her children and friends with its principles. She had neither an ear for gossip, nor a tongue to repeat it. She was never called upon to know what she had said or done, as her part in any neighborhood broil. She took no part in such matters.

She lived a devoted member of the Baptist church—an earnest advocate of religion. Any Sunday visitor was almost sure of finding the Bible in her hands. During all her sickness she seemed perfectly resigned to the Divine will, never murmuring at her afflict-ions—always trying to soothe the minds of her husband and family by assurances that she was not suffering much.

The day before her death she threw her arms around her daughter's neck and with the thought of the near approach of death, exclaimed: "The Lord be praised." Her end was easy—without a struggle. By her request she was buried at Walton's Creek church, in a coffin which her husband had prepared for himself.

In commenting upon her life and death, we are forcibly reminded of the poet's words:

"Life is real, life is earnest, And the grave is not its goal, 'Dust thou art, to dust returnest' Was not spoken of the Soul."

NEIGHBORHOOD NOTES.

CORN cutting has begun.

The Episcopal Church at Paducah has resolved to call a pastor.

HENDERSON has a brewery that makes 820 kegs of beer per day.

The Elizabethtown News has been purchased by H. H. McCarty, of Louisville.

PADUCAH NEWS: The crop of corn is so good this year that the farmers will hardly know what to do with it.

PADUCAH NEWS: Large quantities are being hauled to this market, where it commands from 85 cents to $1 00 per bushel.

The Republicans will hold a convention in Madisonville, Oct. 5, to select a candidate for Congress in the Second District.

PARIS Kentuckian: Gen. W. T.
Withers shipped on Monday, a carload of fine trotters East, sold at $600 to $3,000 per head.

UNION Local: Tobacco cutting has began in earnest, in this county, and our farmers are jubilant over the fine prospects of a large yield.

The Mayfield Monitor urges the building of a new jail, as no persons with any regard for his character as a man of energy will stay in the present affair more than twelve hours.

MADISONVILLE Times: Chill pills, ague tonic and other hot and bitter medicines are now in demand. The chills are getting in their work in a very lively and vigorous manner.

The Christian Sunday-school convention at Madisonville, last week, was well attended by delegates from nine counties. The next meeting will be held in Hopkinsville, next May.

A Mr. TICE, down in Graves county, is predicting the blowing of an ill-wind for the Republican party about November 7. The prophecy "bears upon its face the persuasive odor of its own probability."

The number of hogheads of tobacco of last year's crop put up in the various sterneries in Henderson amounted to near 6,000. The capital invested in this business amounts to about $3,000,000.

HARRODSBURG Observer and Reporter: Some parties from this and Shelby county, purchased during the last week in this and Boyle counties, several hundred head of hogs for which they paid 64 cents.

MAYSVILLE Eagle: Wm. H. Durrett, of the Washington neighborhood, has lost more than fifty fat hogs from cholera. Col. Goggin has also lost several, and the farmers of that section are generally alarmed for stock.

BOWLING GREEN Pantagraph: We learn that there is more fall ploughing going on in the Three Springs neighborhood than has been known for many years. That is a good indication of the good people of that section intend doing.

RICHMOND Examiner: Mr. William M. Thomas, of Elliston, has a cow that has the new cattle disease that is appearing in some portions of the country. The tongue is affected, besides the head being diseased similar to distemper in horses.

MADISONVILLE Times: The trial of Long ended last Thursday. The case excited considerable interest. A great many witnesses were examined.
The defence was represented by Messrs. Bradley, Waddill and Pratt, and the prosecution was conducted by Messrs. Laffoon and Arnold. The case was tried before Judges Sale and Taliaferro, who after hearing the arguments and testimony, decided Long's offense to be manslaughter and fixed his bail at the very low figure of $500, which Long gave, and is now at liberty.

HENDERSON has some solid citizens.
The News gives the following list of persons paying tax on over $50,000: Wm. S. Soapher, $308,490; John H.
Barrett, $303,610; Jos. Adams, $89, 400; Jackson McClain, $82,500; A.
Dixon's estate, $78,725; W. S. Elam, $84,930; Allen Gilmore, $71,000; E.
B. Newcomb, $58,550; J. E. McKel-ister, $52,000; Joel Lambert, $52,330; John G. Holloway's estate, $80,800; Richard Soaper, $53,600; McCormick and Shelby, $58,600; Total of thirteen estates, $1,365,536. It must be borne in mind, however, that parties are taxed in much less than they are really worth.

HITESVILLE correspondence. Union Local of the 16th says:

"And so Mr. I. A. Spalding is beaten. Right does not always comes out immediately triumphant, and Mr. Mc-Kenzie is renowned as a powerful stump-ordinator; a man who flung out a glittering language without seeming to do so. But "all is not gold that glitters" may, perhaps, be applied to Mr. McKenzie. He may be eloquent in the tawdry gum-flowers of rhetoric; but was not his opponent also eloquent in the plain practical eloquence of truth? He may be a true Democrat, and is not Spalding so? Where then, lies the difference? Between the man of glittering words, and the man of some sense, in the man that is a member of several different secret societies, that are pledged to assist each other, —and the man who is an unwavering member of a church whose records are as old as the Christian era itself.
This is the difference, and thus was it defeated."

Thus terminates the effusion of a distracted brain. We are pretty well posted in the District, and really thought there was but one sore head, and he resided in Hopkinsville however, misery loves company, and as such "Karl" will find his fit associate in, the "Oldest man in Christian."

wants the Government to furnish blankets, grub etc., this winter.

REN DOG, unwilling to sign any papers —but willing to meet "The Great Father, (Grant,) face to face. There's business.

QUICK BEAR, wants big talk with Great Father, (Grant,) before giving up the country. There's business again.

BLACK COAT, (Arrpanhoes,) thinks his tribe equally entitled to their share of spoils and scalps.

RED CLOUD made a speech in which he said that he and his people were willing to give up the Black Hills country, and also to have his young men take a journey to see the country spoken of by the commission (the Indian Territory), and if they report that it is a good country, his people will so consider; if they report it bad, they will consider it bad.

AMERICAN HORSE said soldiers had no business here. If they wish to arrest anybody the country is wide, let them go and arrest them. There are a good many bad men in the North, let the soldiers go and arrest them.

This, although a young man, is pronounced the greatest philosopher among them.

Now comes Gen. Sitting Bull, who is supposed to have graduated at West Point at the same time and in the same class with Gen. Grant and familiarly known as "Bison." He says, I have got a judgement against the agent. If he issues every ten days promptly, it is all right, but if he don't I will go north.

SIMMONS' LIVER DISEASE

Indigestion prevails to a greater extent than probably any other malady, and relief is always anxiously sought after. If the Liver is regular in its action, health is almost invariably secured. Indigestion or want of action in the Liver, causes Headache, Constipation, Jaundice, Pain in the shoulders, Cough, Diarrhea, sour stomach, bad taste in the mouth, bilious attacks, palpitation of the heart, depression of spirits or the blues, and a hundred other symptoms. Simmons' Liver Regulator is the best remedy that has ever been discovered for these ailments. It acts mildly, effectively, and being a simple vegetable compound, can do no injury in any quantities that it may be taken. It is harmless in every way, it has been for forty years, and hundreds of the good and great from all parts of the country will vouch for its virtues, viz: Hon. Alexander H. Stephens, of Georgia.
J. B. South of Georgia.
Jno. Gill Shorter, Ex-Gov. of Alabama.
Gen. Geo. John B. Gordon.
J. L. Mott of Columbia, Ga.

remedies."

THE HERALD.

WEDNESDAY, -- SEP. 27, 1876.

Job work of every description done with neatness and dispatch, at city prices. We have a full line of job types, and solicit the patronage of the business community.

General Local News.

NEWSPAPER advertising is a permanent addition to the reputation of the goods advertised, because it is a permanent influence always at work in their interest.

We call special attention to the column of "Business Locals," from our Merchants and business men. Persons wishing to buy, will always find it to their interest to purchase of the most liberal men.

Mr. THOS. L. DAVIS, brought two sweet potatoes to town that were really "immense." Although not as large as some we have seen but for exterior beauty excel all. They were of the early Moody species.

Mr. W. H. PERKINS and wife, Owensboro, Ky., were in town last week, visiting the family of Wm. H. Moore.

MR. CLAYTON WALLACE, who has been reading medicine at this place for some time past, left last week for Philadelphia, to attend Jefferson Medical College.

Mrs. LIZZIE WALKER, daughter of Hon. E. D. Walker of this place, left yesterday morning, to attend school in Philadelphia.

THE readers of this paper will find in another column the advertisement of Dr. G. W. Priest, a Dentist of Louisville, Ky. The Dr. is graduate of Medicine and also of Dental Surgery—with 22 years' experience and all operations entrusted to his care will be faithfully performed.

THE case of the Commonwealth against Willis Embury for the killing of Amos Morris will be tried on Friday next at Cromwell. Mr. Embury has surrendered himself by advice of his counsel, Messrs. Walker & Hubbard. Mr. Embury has heretofore borne a good character and his friends are confident of an acquittal. We forbear expressing an opinion and are content to let the law decide.

Our friend L. Rosenberg returned home from a Centennial trip last Monday. He brought with him from the Quaker city a keepsake by which to remember his Centennial visit. The gift is a rare one and our friend proposes to care for it till next Centennial if he should live so long and the precious object does not perish. For explanation read marriage notice.

HOPKINS is still ahead in the matter of big tobacco. Mr. Jas. M. Pemberton brought to town the other day a leaf of tobacco that measured forty-one and a half inches in length, thirty-one and a half inches in width, and weighed thirteen ounces. We call upon our exchanges to beat this if they can.—Mad. Times, 20th.

Here you are, Mr. J. B. ROWAN, brought us a leaf of Tobacco, "Blue Prior," that measured twenty-nine inches, by fifty-one long.

Mendel & Kahn.

The above enterprising firm of Cromwell, Ky., are receiving one of the largest stocks of goods ever brought to this part of the world. Mr. Mendel has been absent for several weeks purchasing the stock. He has bought them almost exclusively for cash and hence has bought them at the lowest possible rate and proposes to sell them the same way. Their stock consists of clothing, boots and shoes, hats and caps, dry goods of any and every description, dress goods in great variety, hardware, queensware, groceries, and in short anything you want. Call and give them a fair trial before buying elsewhere.

Mrs. MARY NEWTON, of this county sent us a Sweet Potato which weighed 4 1/2 pounds, grown on the farm of Mr. BENJ. NEWTON, near Buford. We were told that this was not selected, but was merely a sample.

"It is the quantity eaten that gives strength, life, blood and health. It is the thorough digestion of the food taken, let it be much or little. Therefore, do not stimulate up the stomach to crave food, but rather assist digestion after eating, by taking Simmons' Liver Regulator.

"We call the attention to the advertisement of Simmons' Liver Regulator, which appears in the paper to-day. This standard remedy does not deserve to be classed with the many "patent" nostrums so liberally advertised throughout the country. It is one of the very best preparations of its kind in use; and is recommended by the regular practitioners of medicine. It has a large sale in the city, and can be found at our drug stores, a bottle or package should be found in every family, as its judicious use is almost certain to prevent a Bilious attack if taken when the symptoms first show themselves."

Annual Conference of the (Col.) M. E. Church.

An interesting series of meeting have been held here for one week of the above denomination. Several additions have been made to the church and good feeling has prevailed generally. There were many ministers from abroad in attendance, some very eloquent. We have not been able to get the appointments for the ensuing year, but will give, in our next all that can interest that portion of our readers.

The matrimonial market seems, from the following, to be on the increase, whether the falling barometer has any influence in this particular, we have not been advised. But the record stands thus:

Jno. M. Calloway and Mrs. Elizabeth Langley.

Miles Wright and Mrs. Nancy E. Bush.

Layfayette J. Rodgers and Miss Zelma S. Webb.

I. C. Wakeland and Miss Annie J. Hines.

Warren L. Maddox and Miss Martha J. Boswell.

Grand Democratic Demonstration at Hartford, Monday, October 2nd 1876

This will be the grandest demonstration ever held in the county. Old men, young men, Ladies, boys and girls, everybody come out.

The Democrats of Cromwell district are true as steel, and always come to time when occasion requires. They will hoist a McHenry and other prominent speakers have been invited, and some or all of them will be on hand to discuss the political issues of the day. We want the masses of the people to turn out and hear these gentlemen on our national political issues.

The Sultry Days of Summer.

Hot weather is very exhausting upon the energies, and its influence renders the system peculiarly liable to disease. During the close and sultry days of July and August, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Cholera Morbus, Cramps, Colic, and pains in the stomach are common and fatal diseases. It is not enough to trust to a curative when attacked, for it is essential to take proper measures for their prevention. An unflinching prevention of all summer complaints exists in DR. RADCLIFF'S SEVEN SEALS or GOLDEN WONDER; and this standard vegetable preparation is no less efficacious as a cure. Thousands have used it for all diseases incident to the summer solstice, and always with the happiest results. Complete cures are effected in the worst cases.
